International application No. PCT/GB03/00996

The invention relates to a corrugated cardboard blank for construction of a support, the support comprising two main body forming panels, a middle panel between said body forming panels and an end flap provided at one end of each body forming panel, each main body forming panel and middle panel having opposite side flaps and each side flap of the main body forming panels being provided with an indent.

Such a corrugated cardboard blank is known from document WO-A-82/00987, being the closest prior art document.

The invention is characterised in that each end flap has a length substantially the same as the length of the middle panel. The provision of two end flaps that are substantially the same length as the middle panel results in the assembled support being inherently strong.

Document WO-A-82/00987 discloses a collapsible container formed from a blank that has a joining flap 24 at the end of one of the main body forming panels which forms only a narrow strip, being significantly shorter than the length of the middle panel and other end flap.

Therefore, the subject-matter of independent claim 1 is new (article 33(2) PCT).

Furthermore, the subject-matter of claim 1 involves an inventive step (article 33(3) PCT) over document WO-A-82/00987 since a skilled person with knowledge of the prior art container would not consider extending the joining flap since this would increase the amount of material used in the production of the container with no added benefit in respect of its intended application of housing articles within the enclosure.

Consequently, the subject-matter of dependent claims 2 to 15 fulfils also the requirements of novelty and inventive step. De plus, les revendications 1 à 15 sont considérées comme susceptible d'application industrielle.
